

Biography

Mr. Gary Aschenbach Jr. has been a Special Agent with the United States Department of Defense since 2005. Among his many duty assignments, he has conducted in excess of 450 personnel interviews that are primarily focused on national security, intelligence gathering and other related safety measures and crimes. In January 2007, he was personally selected and approved to attend the prestigious "Defense Academy for Credibility Assessment" in South Carolina where he successfully completed an intensive four month training program in Forensic Psychophysiology and was ultimately certified as, and is currently, a federal polygraph examiner. To date he is credited with having conducted over 900 polygraph examinations while employing a myriad of those learned techniques in detecting deception in human behavior. He is classified as a senior polygraph examiner, and as such is considered to be an expert in the field of detecting deception. He is regularly sought after to conduct special interest polygraph examinations on behalf of the U.S. government.

He is also the CEO of Law-Tech Consultants, LLC, a private investigative firm founded in 1996, who specializes in private investigations, consulting and training. He is licensed and certified by the Maryland State Police as a private investigator.

Overview

How many times have you asked questions during the course of an interview and have suspected the answers you were given were untruthful? Well those days have come to an end!

Studies find that while the majority of people do not lie, they instead choose to omit information. This is more commonly referred to as "Lies of Omission." In response to avoiding those direct lies, the "fight or flight" syndrome causes them to display involuntary signs of non-verbal body language that is oftentimes accompanied by tell tale signs such as "Evasive Verbal Responses" (EVR's). These, and many other clues of deception, are easily identifiable if you know what to look for and how to ask the right questions! Because these clues are given unknowingly, they are only visible to the trained interviewer.

This fast paced, dynamic seminar is sure to keep even the most seasoned interviewer motivated and interested. You will learn how to develop an interview plan, ask questions designed to induce a reaction, objectively judge the response, recognize where and when the applicant is vulnerable, and most importantly, the effective use of the VERBAL LIE DETECTOR!

Learn to disregard those traditional, ambiguous clues and hunches of suspected deception. Evaluate their responses, involuntary eye, hand, and leg movements without them even realizing it. Do you think these techniques could assist you at work or at home? THOUSANDS OF ATTENDEES THINK SO and are reaping the rewards everyday and so can you! If you are asking yourself who should attend this type of training, the answer is..... ONLY THOSE WITH A NEED TO KNOW THE TRUTH!

Why should you attend?

In our society, we are taught that it is acceptable to tell "white lies," but in employment interviews that dishonest behavior is unacceptable. The truthful information behind those "white lies" is what you want to know in order to make informed hiring decisions. Today workplace violence is steadily on the rise, with law suits costing employers millions of dollars and deaths occurring in their workplaces. If those employment decision makers would have attended this seminar, perhaps they would have recognized tell tale signs that could have prevented them from hiring a dangerous person.

This seminar will:

- Help you make more informed hiring decisions
- Increase your confidence during interviews
- Make you more respected by coworkers
- Make you a more valuable employee
- Sharpen your intuitive senses
